"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be good; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp. THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer has it the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

A PICTURE OF M'CREEARY.

As Pencilled by Dan E. O'Sullivan in the Louisville Critic.

The following "kodak" picture of the Hon. James B. M'Creeary, which appeared in the Louisville Critic some time ago, is reprinted by Dan E. O'Sullivan as a campaign document in behalf of his friend, Judge Lindsay:

"A pen and ink sketch of 'Jim' M'Creeary is of necessity a failure. Portraits of M'Creeary should be done in oil. He is as unctuous to the eye as a well groomed dandy and as smooth to the touch as velvet. He sheds civility as a duck does water. His warm, passionate, questioning hand is as oleaginous as that of a maker of perfumed soaps. His tongue is coated with sweet ointment. His great, round, appealing eyes seem to swim in bowls of delicious piquid. Every word seems to have been dipped in some salacious fluid. His honest do not grate when he walks. The joints are oiled with liniment. He glides through the streets as noiseless as though he traveled on oiled roller-skates over plate glass. There is a lubricity, a slipperiness, an oiliness, an unctuousity about 'Jim' M'Creeary that shames to silence the hardness of a word dropped from a careless or an envious pen.

He is the politician par excellence, a manipulator of men, a diplomat whose phlegm surfaces reflects only the righteousness of those who dare to question his sincerity. Born with a golden spoon in his mouth, he has beaten it into a ladle, from which he has poured a hospitality as bounteous as it is studied. There is no honor that his ambition has not measured and that his purse has not counted the cost of. Encompassed in egotism as the mummies of old were wrapped in imperishable cloths, he stands serene, smiling, confident, defying the ravages of time, and ever and anon renewing his political life with an elixir, whose golden fountain works more wonders than the sanctity of Brown-Sequard ever dreamed of.

INDIANS TURBULENT.

The Navajos Reported To Be Preparing To Go on the Warpath.

Advices received by T. J. Matthews, of Colorado City, from his partner, T. E. Lacombe, of Cortez, Colo., state that the Navajo Indians in that vicinity are arranging for war. The Indians claim the Carizo mountains as a part of their reservation, although recent government surveys locate the line further up the San Juan. Rich gold fields abound in the mountains, which have been known to Lacombe and others for some time. The Indians have molded golden bullets and exhibited them, but they vow the death of any white miners who invade their reservation. Since the Indians claim the Carizo mountains as a part of their reservation, and other miners have staked claims and are now camped upon them. They are prepared to defend their rights. Meanwhile the Indians have retired to their reservation, and an uprising is feared, which, however, may not occur till in the spring. The camp is thirty miles from Cortez.

Do You Want a Public Office.

There are 180,000 offices within the gift of the new administration and now is the time for those seeking public employment to take proper steps to secure one of these lucrative positions. All who are interested should at once send for a copy of the United States Blue Book. It is a register of all federal offices and employments in each state and territory, the District of Columbia and abroad, with their salaries, emoluments and duties; shows who is eligible for appointment, questions asked at examinations, how to make an application and how to push it to success, and gives besides a vast amount of important and valuable information relative to government positions never before published. Handsomely bound in cloth. Price 75 cents, post paid. Address J. H. Soule, pub., Box 43, Washington, D. C.

CRADDOCK AND HAYES.

Interview Each Other as They Ride Together Through the Bluegrass.

Colonel Craddock indulges in the following reminiscence of ex-President Hayes in a late issue of the Kentuckian-Citizen.

The late ex-President Hayes visited Lexington to attend the funeral of Colonel W. C. Goodloe. As he was leaving there we were introduced to him with the usual joke on age, as one who had fought with Daniel Boone and could point out to him all he wanted to know, Bryant Station and other historical points. This kept him interviewing us in reply to our attempts to interview him.

He said in speaking of the very unfortunate occurrence that had brought him to Kentucky, that he deeply regretted it as he was attached to both men. "I have shown my respect for Col. Goodloe, whom I greatly admired, by coming to his funeral," Col. Swamp selected for collector from a list of candidates, as I was greatly impressed in his favor, and he had had my endorsement as my model collector.

In passing in view of Mr. Clay's monument and seeing the spot at Bryan's where the future great statesman made his first stump speech (which was in favor of emancipation), he wondered if the young lawyer in any castle building over thought of the great monument and fame that would outlive him.

We said Bishop Kavanaugh in passing here answered that query by saying: "Mr. Clay set his mark high from the start." Soon the train passed in view of the native home in Bourbon of Governor Corwin, Ohio's great orator and wit, and we told of Rev. Dr. Durbin being also a native of our soil. He said: "You then could claim the two greatest of orators originated here."

On arriving at Paris he enquired as to tell of Paris having during the war a senator in each congress, Davis and Simms; our Congressman Clay as in each army; Senator Davis a stopper in each army; our oldest lawyer, Hanson, a brother killed or wounded in each army.

Proposed R. R. Construction.

The Railway Gazette, in its issue of January 20, has this to say about railroad construction in Kentucky:

"In Kentucky only 121 miles are contemplated, but contracts have already been let and work is being done on about that much more. The extension of the Richmond, Nicholasville, Irvine and Battysville from Irvine to Battysville is promised. This is a distance of thirty-five miles. The grading was partly done before the road went into the hands of a receiver, when it was suspended, but arrangements are now being made to continue the work. The Altamont and Manchester will be extended from Altamont east of Manchester, nineteen miles. That extension partly graded. Seven miles of the Owensboro, Falls of Rough and Green River, between Rough creek and Adams fork, is now nearly completed.

"The Kentucky Midland" talked of extension from Frankfort along the Kentucky river to a connection with the Louisville Southern, a distance of ten miles, is also mentioned as among the prospects. This would give Frankfort another line to Louisville. This road has also surveyed fifty miles from Paris to Morgan county, passing thro' Owingsville.

The knowledge of what is lost by the neglect of our wagonways is daily extending, and with its spread is certain to come a more and more pressing demand for action that shall remove what is not merely a hindrance to progress, but a blot upon our national character.—Harper's Weekly.

GOOD ROADS.

Some Practical and Pertinent Suggestions on the Subject.

The Frankfort Capital says the discussion as to the best means for securing good roads in this state should not be permitted to cease until some plan is matured which promises to obtain the desired result. Many of our country exchanges are earnestly considering the subject, notably the Bardwell Star, from which paper we copy the following article, commending it as a most excellent text upon which to continue the discussion:

... The Star has a plan, one it suggested more than twelve months ago. The paper then came out boldly on a plan, and from time to time ever since this plan has been laid before the readers. It is true we have never undertaken to formulate the whole routine work of putting our plan into operation. This of course would have to be arranged by the legislature, and will be of considerable importance; but if the people will rise in their dignity and power, as they will in the near future, and demand the necessary legislation to put this plan into effect it will be done.

Our idea, as stated many times before, is for the county to issue bonds, to draw not more than six per cent, and to be sold at not less than face value, the bonds to run for several years. The county to have the right of issuing these bonds from time to time, as the proceeds are needed to put all the county roads in good condition. There should be some limit as to the aggregate amount of bonds a county is allowed to issue; but the amount should be ample for all practical purposes. The roads need money, and a great deal of it, spent upon them, and after they are once put in proper order, the expense of keeping them so will be comparatively light.

Of course all this means an outlay of a great deal of money, but it must be remembered that the benefits will be more than comparatively great. All we got costs us money, but the necessities of life must come, and there is no use to stop to count cost and lament over the dictates of nature. When a man is hungry, he must have something to eat, when he is cold, he must be made warm, even though it prevents him from ever accumulating another dollar. As food and clothing are to an individual, so are good roads to an entire county. They are an absolute necessity. The times and conveniences of this people demand them, and the roads must come, cost or no cost. Note the great losses people sustain in this county by having no roads, and you will readily see that good roads would prove profitable at almost any cost.

The man who supposes that the system of road building advocated by the Star is not gaining ground rapidly is badly "off." People are beginning to fall in line, and the plan or some other good one will be adopted.

A Most Happy Selection.

The selection of Mr. Carlisle for secretary of the treasury meets with something more than approval in Washington. Democrats like it because they regard Mr. Carlisle as the democrat best fitted to represent the convictions of the party and to guide it safely in the work of fiscal reform. Republicans like it because they regard it as a pledge of safe conservatism. Sound money men like it because Mr. Carlisle has never been bitten by any heresy of cheap money, while the free coinage men regard his selection as indicating on the part of the president-elect a purpose to deal fairly and conservatively with silver and not to treat any phase of the coinage question that may arise in a merely doctrinaire spirit. In brief, the selection seems to be regarded by all classes of men in congress as conspicuously the best that could have been made, and as one which promises an able, broad-minded and most successful administration.—New York World.

CURRENT NEWS AND COMMENT.

JAMES G. BLAINE, ex-secretary of the state, after a prolonged and painful illness, died at his residence in Washington on Friday last, of Bright's disease of the kidneys. In the death of Mr. Blaine the country loses one of the greatest men it has produced, if not the greatest; and the whole people mourn his death. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat thus speaks of him: "He will figure always in the public mind as the brilliant, magnetic, resourceful and intrepid partisan chieftain—as dashing and as powerful as the Black Prince, as inspiring, as picturesque and as chivalrous as the Chevalier Bayard. Like Letourneur D'Auvergne, his name, long after death, will continue to be called out at the regular roll-calls of his legion."

The election of Martin to be senator by the Kansas legislature was disappointing to the republicans in congress, who had somehow or other got the idea that the

Mrs. H. C. Swang is visiting her father's family on White Oak, in Morgan county.

Jimmie Taubee, of Mt. Sterling, was a guest of Dr. J. A. Taubee Tuesday night. He was on route home from Salyersville.

Thos. Troy, book-keeper for J. D. Day & Co., who has been visiting his family at Indian Old Fields, and friends in Winchester, returned home Monday.

John B. Davis has gone to Clay City to contract for the stone work on the Center Lumber company's new mill. He returned Tuesday, having secured a job.

The people of Wolfe county are wonderfully well-pleased with our new circuit judge and commonwealth's attorney. They are this week at Salyersville holding court.

Rev. James Little announces the following as his appointments until further notice: Gillmore, second Sunday; Frozen Creek, third Sunday, and at Hazel Green on the fourth.

Mattie, the little daughter of John Evans and wife, and one of the youngest scholars at Hazel Green academy, last week met a little sister cousin of her's the first time, and introduced herself by saying, "Nannie you must come up and see us, for you is my last cousin."

In the circuit court at Campton last week John Smith, for killing W. H. Reynolds about a year ago, was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. James Combs, for stealing logs, also received a sentence to the pen. We were promised a full report of proceedings, but it failed to reach us from some cause.

Our young friend, A. T. Combs, a short time ago informed us that he would be a candidate for sheriff of this county. Thrasher has rode deputy sheriff, been muster commissioner, and his acquaintance with the people fits him for the place. When he announces for the position we will have more to say of him.

Wm. Shoemaker, who lives on the state road between this place and Maytown, was caught in the bolting of the Sandfield saw-mill on Wednesday, and so badly torn to pieces that there is little hope of his recovery. Dr. Kash, of this place, was called and dressed the injured man's wounds, and we understand he says there is little or no hope for him.

A meeting lasting some eight days and conducted by Revs. Willis Lykins, Barney Blankenship and others, closed on Sunday evening at the Cecil school house in Morgan county. During the meeting eight or ten were converted, seven of whom united with the Baptist church, to which belong the reverend and gentleman named, though Christians of all denominations took an active part in the meeting.

Sheriff Drake has moved his family to Jackson temporarily so that he can be with them at night and to give his children the advantage of school. His duties as detective on the K. U. railroad require him to be there, but as he has made C. C. Hanks, the outgoing sheriff, his chief deputy, the people will suffer no inconvenience from his temporary residence at Jackson. For "well done, good and faithful servant" has always been the tribute paid Mr. Hanks.

FEATS OF FENDAL WAR IN MAGGON.

A Salyersville special to the Courier-Journal of Jan. 30th, says: Monteville Deskins, the magistrate who was thought to have been badly wounded in the fight of January 2, and whose whereabouts have not been generally known since that time, passed through this place last night with a body of armed men. Deskins is a native of Virginia and has been in that state, it is said, since the fight.

Reports are conflicting as to the number of men with him last night, but there were probably ten in all, and there is no doubt but they were armed with Winchester. Just what their intention in making this warlike demonstration is cannot be anticipated. Deskins' friends claim that it is only for the purpose of protecting him from the Riser crowd until there shall have been a legal investigation of the part he played in the fight in which his brother and others were killed, while others believe that he has returned to avenge the death of his brother in a summary way. The people are considerably excited over the prospect of a similar state of affairs to that through which so many mountain counties have passed, and a united effort on the part of all good citizens will be made to avert the threatened danger.

A Strange Case.

E. C. Jones, of Lane, was in our office Saturday, Jan. 21, and told the following strange incident. A 5-year old boy of Eph Jones', on or about Jan. 1st, suddenly began to show signs of lunacy. It first began to run back and forth in front of the fire and could not be persuaded to desist. A lady of the neighborhood who was present at the time picked up the child and tried to quiet it, but it proved too strong for her and fell from her arms, sprawling upon the floor. For fifteen days the boy proved to be a raving maniac, and did not sleep or take nourishment of any kind except the little milk it was forced to drink by drenching. This symptom was succeeded by a desire to sleep, and up to the day before our information came to us, the boy had slept right along, still taking no nourishment of any kind. What is the cause of this strange action is a question that now puzzles the family.

Candidate for Assessor of Wolfe.

Our young friend, Jeff M. Rose, of Lacy creek, is announced in this issue of our paper, for the position of assessor of Wolfe county, subject to the action of the democratic party. Mr. Rose is a young man of the very highest moral standing, thoroughly honest and amply qualified for the duties of the position he seeks, and the people would make no mistake in selecting him. This is the first time he has ever sought office of any kind, but he has always been an advocate of Jacksonian democracy and his preference would reflect credit alike upon his constituents and himself.

Wants to be Deputy Marshal.

W. A. Byrd, of Campton, is an applicant for the position of U. S. deputy marshal under the coming administration, and his friends in this section hope to see him secure the place. Mr. Byrd was for a while deputy sheriff of this county and discharged the duties of the position in such a manner as to leave no doubt of his fitness for the place he now seeks, and we believe if he is appointed that he will make a faithful and fearless officer.

MAYTOWN MISSES.

MAYTOWN, Morgan county, Jan. 30.—Our esteemed young friend, Henry W. Vest, of Omer, has for sometime been paying regular visits to our quiet little town. No one thought for a moment that Henry could be guilty of anything wrong, but last Sunday, Jan. 22, he with a small force of beautiful young ladies and gentlemen from the same neighborhood marched into our town unmolested and captured one of our prettiest and best girls, Miss Ada, daughter of Alex. Patrick, Elder James Fugate officiating. We join in wishing the young couple a prosperous and happy journey through life.

Since the long cold snap, the bright sunshine seems to have put new life in most everybody and everything. We hear no more complaining of hard times. On the other hand we hear those who have a right to know, say that money is more plentiful than for years. How could it be otherwise when so many of us are getting war pensions. Just let 'em come.

THE DEFICIT CONFESSED.

Explanatory Disclosures of Secretary Foster's Report.

For the first time in some years, the secretary of the treasury was not ready to present his report to congress upon its opening day, and it passed with no statement from Secretary Foster but the brief fact that the estimates of appropriations for the next fiscal year, made up by the various departments, had not even these meager figures ready when a revelation of the deception practiced upon the people by the treasury department under the Harrison administration. Fortunately there is close to hand a text to which the administration's evasive, truthfulness and reliability may be put, a text furnished by the administration itself.

Just a year ago Secretary Foster furnished congress and the country with his "estimate" for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1895. These estimates, which were challenged as untruthful and designed to cheat the people. The time has now come when the fraud can no longer be concealed. The estimate of December 1, 1894, and the estimate of July 1, 1895, for the fiscal year 1895-96, are all the evidence needed to expose the Harrison administration of the treasury. We quote Charles Foster against Charles Foster:

ESTIMATED APPROPRIATIONS	For 1894-95	For 1895-96
Legislative	$1,000,000	$1,000,000
Executive	2,000,000	2,000,000
Judicial	1,000,000	1,000,000
Army	1,000,000	1,000,000
Navy	1,000,000	1,000,000
Post Office	1,000,000	1,000,000
Interior	1,000,000	1,000,000
Education	1,000,000	1,000,000
Public Works	1,000,000	1,000,000
Consular	1,000,000	1,000,000
Penitentiary	1,000,000	1,000,000
Permanent Apprs	1,000,000	1,000,000
Total	$10,000,000	$10,000,000

We print the two estimates in full, first, because they contain all that was said a year ago in criticism of Foster second, because they show precisely where the responsibility for increased expenditures rests, and third, because they disclose the existence of the deficit in the treasury, created by the Harrison administration, which has hitherto tried to cover up.

The estimates, printed before the presidential election in round numbers, were so short of the estimates printed since the election, which are somewhere near the facts. A year ago the Harrison administration wished the people to believe that their government was financially administered. The people have voted that they know better; they have seen through the deception, and the administration can no longer lead us by the nose.

It will be noted that the increase is almost entirely in the items of pensions, $3,000,000, and permanent annual appropriations, $2,000,000. These estimates show the democratic control of the treasury, created by the Harrison administration, which has hitherto tried to cover up. The people have voted that they know better; they have seen through the deception, and the administration can no longer lead us by the nose.

HARRISON'S FAREWELL.

Some of the Disclosures of the President's Last Message.

Mr. Harrison's last message is what might very well have been expected from him—a reiteration of his assurances that, whether triumphant or defeated, he is one of the best, wisest, purest and most patriotic of our countrymen ever produced. This is an undertone in the present message which is pitched throughout in a minor key. Harrison is no longer triumphant, but he is determined to deny that he was wrong on a single point of the policy of his administration. He goes on reiterating his indorsement of every policy he has previously advocated, from high tariff to force bill and ship subsidies.

Those who expected to hear a "key-note" rallying the party will be disappointed. The message is pitched throughout in a minor key. Harrison is no longer triumphant, but he is determined to deny that he was wrong on a single point of the policy of his administration. He goes on reiterating his indorsement of every policy he has previously advocated, from high tariff to force bill and ship subsidies.

solidarity for the workman, for whom, he says, it has been his (Harrison's) "care to increase those home expenditures and family comforts without which life is neither hopeful nor sweet." After this somewhat vague reference to the Brussels policy and the fact which he and his party have supplied the name of every workman, he concludes that "the result of the recent election must be accepted as having introduced a new policy." He will not insult the democrats by insinuating that they will be false to their pledges to inaugurate a tariff for revenue only, and he says that the contention has not been between schedules, but principles. He then concludes with the farmer, and finally, "with undiminished confidence" in protection, he recommends that "the whole subject of tariff revision be left to the incoming congress" and declares it "a matter of regret" that the inevitable revision must be delayed for at least three months.

Every question he is uncommittal to the last. He makes no recommendation, alleging in excuse that the Brussels conference is still in session. He hints very strongly that the bullion question is not to be repeated, but here also he avoids making a recommendation.

In dealing with the condition of the treasury he claims that the year left on hand of surplus of $9,000,000, the difference between $45,585,000 receipts and $41,585,000 expenditures. He argues that it was much better to spend the surplus than to leave it in the treasury or deposit it in banks without interest. He forgets to add, however, that nearly the whole of the "available surplus" on his books has consisted of such deposits.

In his reference to the report of the secretary of state he develops some further facts in his anti-Canadian policy and recommends the establishment of consular courts in Canada.

In his long and posing comments on the affairs of other departments he makes only what he would naturally be expected to say.

The message is spoiled by a mass of badly-digested statistics which deprive it of all dignity, including it to the level of the report of a social agent of the census. Take it all in all, it is, perhaps, the poorest and coldest message Mr. Harrison ever wrote.

His conclusion is characteristic. He cannot forget the civil war sectionalism, and in reasserting his position on the force bill he supplements it by recommending that sheriffs at the south be permitted to stop civilizing more especially the lynching of negroes. As he is not charged by the constitution to make recommendations to the country, his statistics supply for a reason for the state's sin, and to fear the stigma of a charge of lawlessness made from the white house in a state paper to reason for the honor of the man that these should be his closing words to the American people—St. Louis Republic.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—Liam Hall: Take one-half cupful of bread crumbs and mix with two eggs well beaten, chop fine some bits of cold butter and mix with them. Make into balls and fry—Home.

—Hoscon Cornmeal: One cup sweet milk, two cups of sour milk, two-thirds of a cup of molasses, a cup of flour, four cups of cornmeal, two teaspoonfuls of soda; steam three hours and brown a few minutes in the oven.—Detroit Free Press.

—Hickorynut Kisses: Take whites of three eggs, one-half pound of pulverized sugar and a teaspoonful chopped nuts. Beat the eggs light, then add sugar and nuts. Drop with a teaspoon on hot buttered toast; bake quickly.—Orange Judd Farmer.

—Kaisin Puffs: Two eggs, half a cupful of butter, three teaspoonfuls baking powder, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two cups of milk. Bake on a greased tin in cups, half an hour in small cups. This is an excellent pudding.—Country Gentleman.

—Creamed Potatoes: Boil, mash, season with salt and pepper; make moderately moist with cream; beat in the whipped white of an egg; mould in a pie plate and set in the oven until slightly browned. Sprinkle with pepper and big small bits of butter on top.—Practical Farmer.

—Parisienne Potatoes: Peel raw potatoes and leave in cold water half an hour. Wipe, and with vegetable soap cut round balls and throw into ice water; in fifteen minutes drain, wipe, and drop into a kettle of boiling fat; when brown, skin out the balls; drain on brown paper, and pile at the end of the fish platter, garnish with celery tips.—Housekeeper.

—Tiger Salad: Clean one pint of white celery, and cut into the pieces of convenient size. Wash in cold water, drain and when cold mix them with a French dressing, put in a layer of shredded lettuce in a salad bowl, sprinkle with a French dressing, add the celery and celery, cover with a Mayonnaise dressing, and garnish with pickled berries.—Boston Budget.

—Celery Salad with Mayonnaise: Cut away the green leaves and thoroughly clean some celery; cut into shreds, season with salt, pepper, vinegar, and a little oil; dish up and serve over it a mayonnaise dressing as follows: Rub the inside of an earthenware bowl with a piece of onion; break in two yolks of eggs, a teaspoonful of dry mustard, a little salt and pepper (white); mix well, and add a few drops of oil from time to time, stirring meanwhile with a wooden spoon. When the foundation is started add a little vinegar, then a little ketchup, oil and vinegar, alternately, until sufficient dressing is made.—Boston Herald.

LACE AND FUR TOGETHER.

Evening Gown and Military Shown This Combination.

What a strange commingling is approved by fashion in the wintery days that are coming. A fur coat, which is still retain some of the beauty of summer, lace, nestles in closely against the warmth of fur, and thus are found the typical trimmings of two seasons in a uniform race, but not unappreciated.

An evening gown of white satin was bordered by a deep edge of sable, and it was wonderfully rich to look upon. Pale yellow also combined with the fur of all sorts. A crown of this had the neck edged with beaver and panels of heliotrope velvet outlined in the same warm-toned granitine. A pale pink lining peep out from beneath the fur and black fur, was a dream, though probably a very palpable reality to the husband who paid the bill.

A white, shirring-trimmed hat had the neck outlined in waterline and the silk underpetticoat was likewise bordered with the fur. In millinery, mink, sealskin, ermine, hand of Persian lamb, and even ermine are used in combination with the fur.

There is no state in the union in which the republican party is more of a back number than Wisconsin. Gov. Peck says there is nothing left of it except the colored man who tends the furnace in the state house cellar.

A black lace hat was similarly treated with ermine, but had black tips instead of the roses. The tiny laces of non-hermit material were used in the hats and even the fastenings of gowns, so popular is anything suggestive of a girl at tea.

Partner Miller hasn't got money enough to pay a bill of special deputy, but he is very sworn in to elect Harrison. As they did not earn their money by doing it, Partner Miller does not seem to be in any special hurry about getting them paid off.—St. Louis Republic.

Those for Young title.

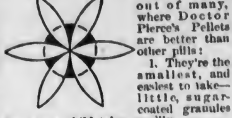

In summing up the matter of dress appropriate for all appearances of young girls before the public, one can not too strongly urge the golden mean of simplicity as the safest, truest guide on all points where doubt may arise and counsel may not be at hand. Over-decoration, the badge of our age and country. The charge against us of extravagance in dress rings through every part of the civilized world where our women circulate. If American women would not go to their dresses with the same instinctive sense of the "eternal fitness" of their gowns; to their quick apprehension of picturesque effects in colors; to their pardonable reluctance to wear elaborate gowns and boots and becomingly dressed hair—and cast away exaggeration of style and recklessness of cost—we could afford to defy the modern fashion anywhere.—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE DEFICIT CONFESSED.

Employment Disclosures of Secretary Foster's Report.

For the first time in some years the secretary of the treasury has not read his report to present his report to congress upon its opening day, and it passed without a statement from Secretary Foster but the brief table of estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year made up by the various departments, but even these meager figures carry with them a revelation of the deception practiced upon the people by the treasury department under the Harrison administration. Fortunately there is close to hand a test to which the administration's candor, truthfulness and reliability may be put, a test furnished by the administration itself.

Just a year ago Secretary Foster furnished congress and the country with his "estimates" for the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1897. Those estimates, however, were challenged as untruthful and designed to cheat the people. The time has now come when the fraud can no longer be concealed. The estimates of December 7, 1897, and December 5, 1897, for the fiscal year 1898, are all the evidence needed to expose the Harrison administration of the treasury. We quote Charles Foster against Charles Foster:

ESTIMATED APPROPRIATIONS.	Dec. 7, 1897.	Dec. 5, 1897.
Legislation	$1,325,000	$1,325,000
Executive	21,043,000	21,043,000
Judicial	1,000,000	1,000,000
Public Works	1,000,000	1,000,000
Post Office	1,000,000	1,000,000
Indian Affairs	1,000,000	1,000,000
War	1,000,000	1,000,000
Naval	1,000,000	1,000,000
Army	1,000,000	1,000,000
Marine	1,000,000	1,000,000
Permanent Apprs	1,000,000	1,000,000

We print the two estimates in full, first, because they contain all that was and a year ago in criticism of Foster's second, because they show precisely where the responsibility for increased expenditures, rents, and third, because they show the difference between the estimates in the treasury, created by the republicans, which it has hitherto tried to cover up.

The estimates printed before the presidential election in round numbers were $20,000,000 short of the estimates printed since the election, which are somewhere near the facts. A year ago the Harrison administration wished the people to believe that their government was frugally administered. The people have voted that they know better; they have seen through the deception, and the administration can no longer keep it up, if it tried.

It will be noted that the increase is almost entirely in the items of pensions, $2,000,000, and permanent annual appropriations, $1,000,000, and the items of the Harrison administration, which the people have voted that they know better; they have seen through the deception, and the administration can no longer keep it up, if it tried.

Four years ago Secretary Fairchild's report at this time showed an annual surplus of $2,000,000, after all sinking fund requirements had been met. Today Secretary Foster's estimates confess an annual deficit of $2,000,000, and are dumb about obedience to the sinking fund law. The change of administration will come this year, Albany Argus.

HARRISON'S FAREWELL.

Some of the Disclosures of the President's Farewell Message.

Mr. Harrison's farewell message is what might very well have been expected from him—a reiteration of his assurances that, whether triumphant or defeated, he is out of the least, whether most patriotic and least fallible men the country ever produced. This is an undertone in the present message which is picked up by a minor key. Mr. Harrison is no longer triumphant, but he takes pains to deny that he was wrong on a single point of the policy of his administration. He goes out reiterating his assurance of everything he has previously advocated, from high tariff to force bill and ship subsidies.

Those who expected to leave a "key-note" rallying the party will be disappointed. The message seems to have no such aim. It seems to be the work of a man who recognizes that his public career is closed, whose only desire is to keep his face to the company as he bows himself out. But so firmly convinced is he of his own eternal righteousness that he can almost pity what he considers the eternal wrongness that relieves him.

The message opens with a formula—the duty of Porter's census figures, carefully collated with a view to convincing the country that it is wrong and Mr. Harrison right. He is full of solitude for the workingman, for whom, he says, it has been his (Harrison's) "care to increase those home comforts and family comforts without which life is neither hopeful nor sweet." After this somewhat vague reference to the Brussels carpet and piano with which he and his policy have supplied the parlor of every workingman, he concludes that "the result of the recent election must be accepted as having introduced a new policy." He will not insult the democracy by intimating that they will be false to their pledges to inaugurate a tariff for revenue only, and he says that the constitution has not been between schedules, but principles. He then consoles with the farmer, and finally, "with undiminished confidence" in protection, he recommends that "the whole subject of tariff revision be left to the incoming congress" and declares it "a matter of regret that the inevitable revision must be delayed for at least three months."

In the silver question he is uncommittal to the last. He makes no recommendation, alleging in excuse that the Bismarck conference is still in session. He hints very strongly that the billion votes not ought to be repeated, but here also he avoids making a recommendation.

In dealing with the condition of the treasury he claims that the year left on hand a surplus of $2,000,000, the difference between $25,000,000 receipts and $23,000,000 expenditures. He argues that it was much better to spend the surplus than to leave it in the treasury or deposit it in banks without interest. He forgets to add, however, that nearly the whole of the "available surplus" on his books has consisted of such deposits.

In his reference to the report of the secretary of state he develops some further facts in his anti-Canadian policy and recommends the establishment of communication between the lakes and seaboard independently of the St. Lawrence.

In his long and prosing comments on the affairs of other departments he writes only what he would naturally be expected to say.

The message is spoiled by a mass of badly digested statistics which deprive it of all dignity, and which it is the level of the report of a special agent of the census. Take it all in all, it is, perhaps, the poorest and dullest message Mr. Harrison ever wrote.

His conclusion is characteristic. He cannot forget the evil war sectionalism, and in reasserting his position on the force bill he supplements it by recommending that "sheriffs at the south do something to stop violations, more especially the kidnapping of negroes. As he is not allowed by the constitution to make recommendations to the country, he does this simply for a rare assertion of radical animosity towards the states which so far as to bear the odium of a charge of lawlessness made from the white house in a state paper to negroes forever of record. It is in keeping with the character of the man that these should be his closing words to the American people.—St. Louis Republic.

LACE AND FUR TOGETHER.

Evening Gowns and Military Shown This Month.

What a strange commingling is approved by fashion in the wintery days that are before us. A dress of velvet still retain some of the beauty of summer, lace, nestled in closely against the warmth of fur, and thus are found the typical trimmings of two seasons in a union rare, but not unappreciated.

An evening gown of white satin was bordered by a deep edge of sable, and it was wondrously rich to look upon. Pale yellow also combines well with fur of all sorts. A crone of this kind had the neck edged with beaver and panels of heliotrope velvet outlined in the same warm-toned garniture. A pale pink bouclé gown, trimmed with jetted lace and black fur, was a dream, though probably a very palpable reality to the husband who paid the bill.

A white, silver-spangled net had the neck outlined in waterline and the silk underpetticoat was likewise bordered with the fur. In military, milk-lane, sensibly erous, hand of Persian lamb, and even ermine are unmeted used and nearly always in conjunction with some filmy material that makes the contrast still greater. One charming hat had a wired roll of duchess lace, a crown of milk and locks of lace interwoven with molting roses as the trimming.

A black lace hat was slather treated with ermine, but had black tips instead of the roses. The tiny heads of non-descript animals peeped out from the loops on hats and even the fastenings of gowns, so popular is anything suggestive of fur for all trimmings this season, when springs and summer are brought to bear on costume and the peaks pour out for winter wear.—Philadelphia Times.

If American women would hold on to their admirable and instinctive sense of the "eternal fitness" of their gowns; to their quick apprehension of picturesque effects in color; to their pardonable and instinctive sense of the grace and beauty of becomingly dressed hair; and cast away exaggeration of style and recklessness of cost—we could afford to defy the makers of fashion anywhere.—Ladies Home Journal.

Where is He Going

To the nearest drugstore for a bottle of Durang's Rheumatic Remedy, a medicine that never fails to cure rheumatism.

It is taken internally and does the work promptly, without drugging the system with poisons.

This is not a new remedy that you need wait for your neighbor to try, to see how it works, as it has been before the public eighteen years and cures when everything else fails.

GENERAL SHERMAN and LOCAN were its outspoken friends, and never failed to recommend it. During the past year the bottle has been enlarged to FOUR TIMES its original size and the remedy greatly improved, so that we now offer you the best treatment for Rheumatism known to medical science.

The price is one dollar a bottle, or six bottles for five dollars, and is sold by all reliable dealers in drugs.

$10,000 DAMAGES.

A Big Price For a Negro's Finger.
B. F. McCormick and William McCormick, doing business under the firm name of McCormick & Son; B. F. McCormick and L. S. Campbell, partners under the name of Campbell & Co., and J. R. Couch and B. F. McCormick, doing business under the firm name of the Lexington Lumber Company, are all made defendants in a suit for damages filed in the circuit court through his attorneys, Nelson & Aickers, by Richard Card, colored.

In his petition, Card states that he was employed by defendants as engineer at their planing mill, when he was ordered by them in February 1, 1892, to saw some slats or boards with a circular saw run by steam, at which work he was unskilled and had no experience and in this undertaking, in which he exercised due care and diligence, he had cut his thumb and the first and second finger of his hand and sustained a deeply cut and mutilated third finger on the same hand, causing permanent injury to said hand. For said injury the plaintiff prays the court for judgment against the defendants in the sum of $10,000, for cost of suit and all proper relief.—Lexington Leader.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill., was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good; but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Rose & Jones.

THE LATE JAMES B. BECK.
Read Greek and Hebrew Like a College Professor.

"The most remarkable thing about the late Senator Beck, and a gentleman in Washington who knew him intimately," was the extraordinary variety and extent of his information. You could not bring up any subject on which he would not talk better than anybody else in the room. I recollect a friend's relating me a striking illustration of this.

"He and Beck, with a number of others, were at dinner at Chamberlain's one evening. The conversation took a wide range, and the subject of the classics came up. To the astonishment of every one in the room Beck read Greek and Hebrew authors in citation of his views with the fluency of a Harvard professor. Every one was astonished."

"Beck was the biggest man I ever knew—a man intellectually, physically and morally in every sense of the word."

The Correct View of It.
Recently while holding a chair the subject of their local paper was discussed. One former said he thought it had too many advertisements in it. The other replied: "In my opinion the advertisements are far from being the least valuable part of it. I took them over carefully every week, and I save at least five times the cost of my paper each year through the business advantages I get from them." Said the other: "I believe you are right. I know that they pay me well and rather think it is not in taste to find fault with the advertisements after all." These men have the right idea of the matter. It pays any man with a family to support to take his local paper for the sake of the advertisements it contains if for nothing more.—Exchange.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever used for the purpose for which it is intended.—For bottles for sale by Rose & Jones."

Postmaster Wood has received notice that his claim for $272.44 on account of the loss of stamps, etc., by the fire which destroyed his office on May 1st last has been allowed by the department. The prompt settlement of the claim is due to the efforts of Congressman Kendall. It usually takes a much longer time to adjust claims of this character.
